Session dates: Monday 15th of January & Wednesday 24th of January

Total webinar signups: 261

Parents were asked to rate how they felt about the statements below:

Parents would recommend this and similar webinars to others?

What parents said their main take aways were from the webinar:

There was a lot of useful information shared and links to resources.

I will follow up the links about friendships which is an ongoing challenge for my son.

Tips on sleeping and friendships

As a result of your recommendations, I have bought some of the books that look relevant for us and our child. Social stories looks interesting.

Information regarding Gender and Friendship was useful for my child worth to have some resources to try out.

The training was extremely informative and knowledgeable.

What parents felt could be improved in the future:

Information on friendship, social interactions, how to engage more with peers. Information on the other side of the spectrum, those who are doing very well academically but not socially.

There is a lot of 'generic' information about child development - I was interested in how I, as a neurotypical adult, can help and understand my autistic child.

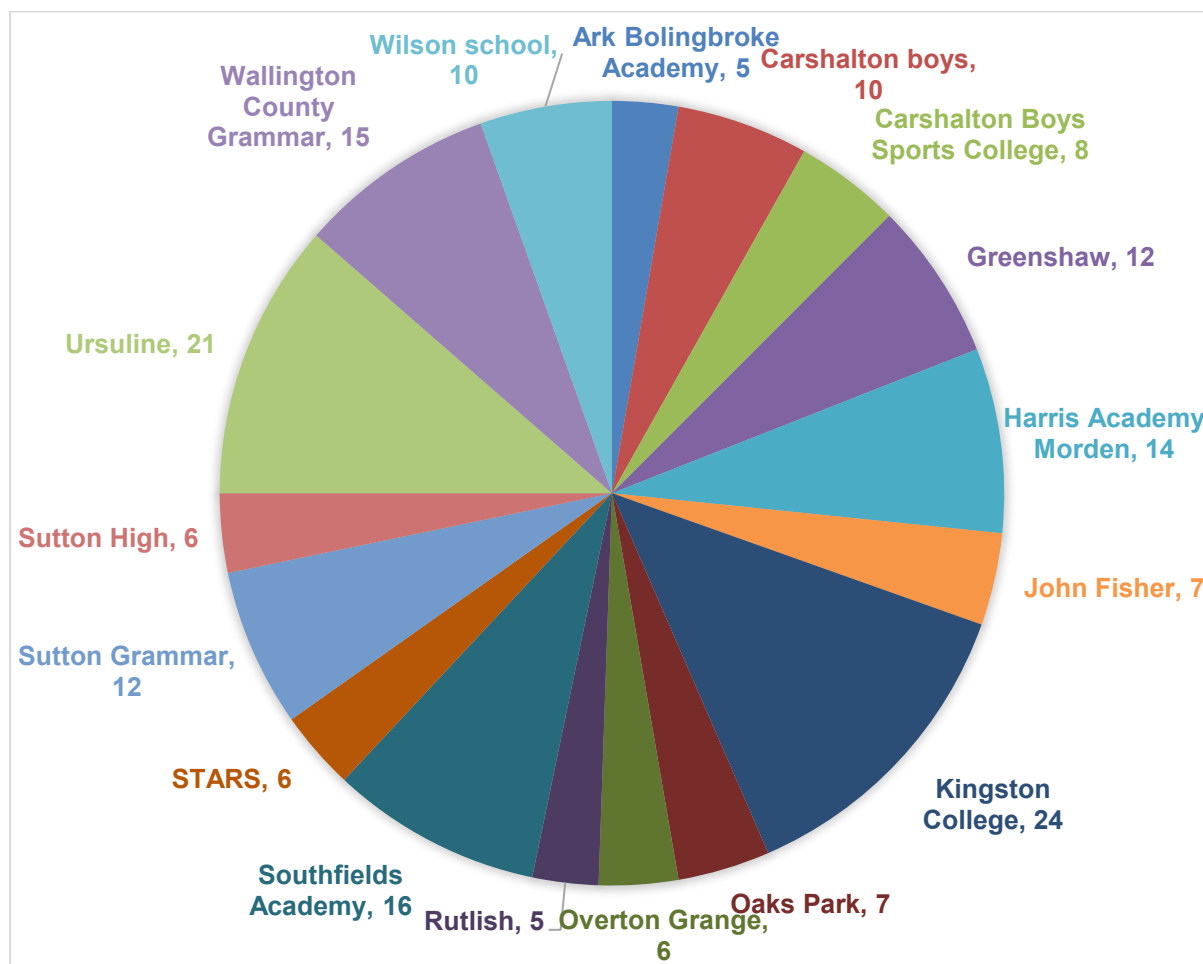

I would really be interested in a webinar for High Functioning Autism - a lot of information about autism concentrates on the less able people. My son is in a grammar school so performs very well on
