History

Statement of Intent

This subject provides the students with the power to evaluate critically the significance and utility of a large body of material, including evidence from contemporary sources and interpretations of historians. This then empowers students to engage directly with questions and present independent opinions about them in arguments that are well-written, clearly expressed, coherently organised and effectively supported by relevant evidence. This prepares the student, from the confidence gleaned, to undertake self-directed learning, making the most effective use of resources, and increasingly defining one’s own questions and goals. History education within RPHS aims to equip our students with both powerful knowledge and the skills required to become well-rounded individuals. Our curriculum is structured to nurture a love of history through the development of key historical skills and a depth of knowledge. Students develop the five key concepts using evidence, interpretations, significance, change and continuity and cause and consequence. These concepts are used as tools for students to make sense of, and understand, the volume of knowledge required for the development of expertise. Students in year 7 study a wide range of historical periods from Anglo-Saxon Britain through to the Gunpowder Plot. Students in year 8 study a wide range of historical periods from The Reformation through to the Industrial Revolution Students in year 9 study a wide range of historical periods from The First World War through to analysing the concept of change. This enables students to study the past from a variety of standpoints and to make connections and comparisons over time.
