What parents said their main take aways were from the webinar:

Everything! It was so informative and has made me feel so much better and in turn this I feel will only help my daughter I feel more positive thank you so much

I am at the start of the journey to pursue a referral - this has made me sure it is the right thing to do and that if school are not supportive I will take the private route.

Working with the child to what to do instead of answering back. Set a timer for getting tasks started

The bedroom tidying issue was eye-opening. I'll definitely be approaching tasks in a different manner moving forwards

Revelatory - incredibly well presented and lucid, accessible and all round excellent presenter- cannot thank her enough

What parents felt could be improved in the future:

To dive deeper on each of the topics to understand further why and more of what we can do to help. I understand not possible because of time

Maybe arranging a meet and greet for parents/caters to talk and support each other.

It probably would make sense to have a longer workshop and one dedicated person answering questions.

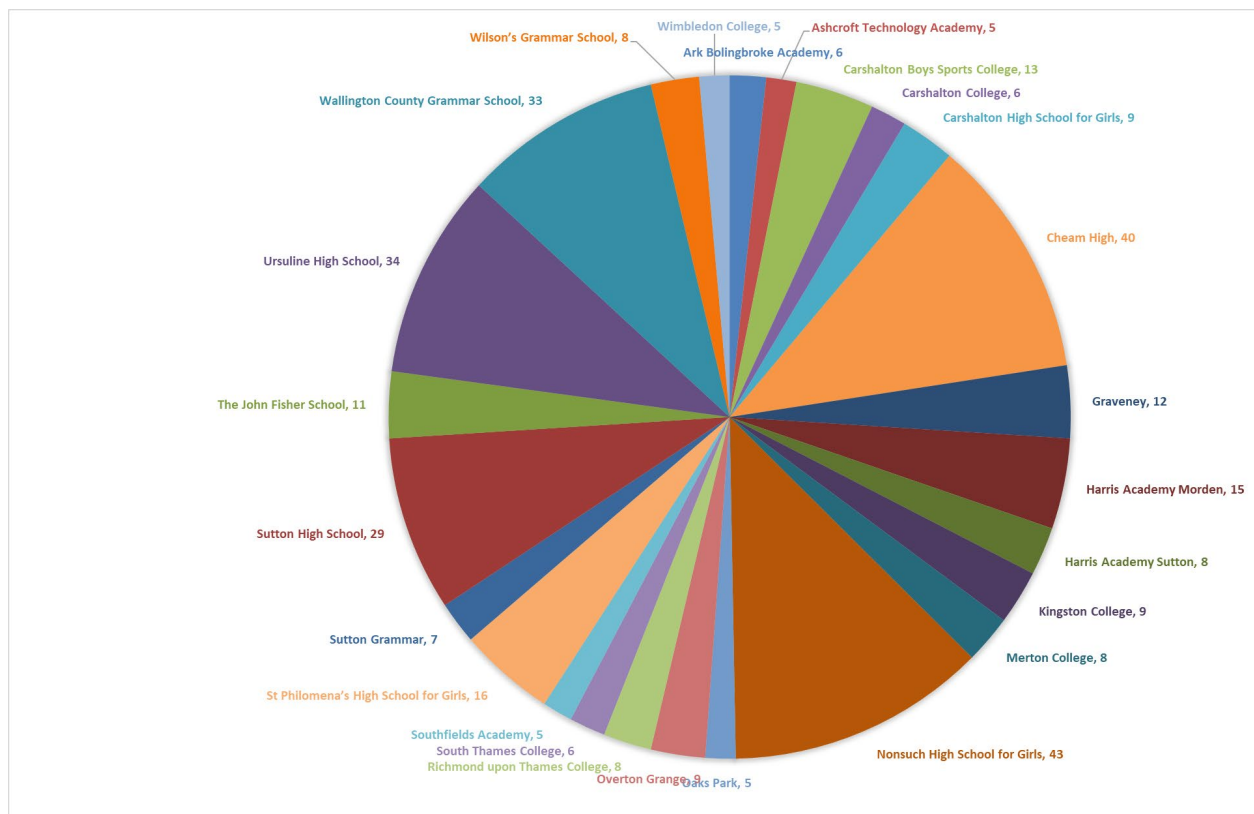

This was excellent and about right in terms of time but I would love to have another hour on link between ASD and ADHD

More information to give the child and more on how to deal with teens who refuse to accept a diagnosis or accept school help due to being labelled 'special' by peers
